FOREWORD

A GAIN the report of the year is presented in a single volume by the Board of Foreign Missions and the Woman's Board. It is a symbol of the close cooperation of the Boards, which have a united budget and a united approach to the great task of the Church in foreign lands.

The year under review has been marked by major crises. Few days have been without their "anxiety for all the churches" and for the personal safety of some of our missionaries living in tension areas or travelling upon seas made dangerous by war operations.

Against this background is sketched this record of the work of our missionaries and of the churches which they serve. We believe that the reader will catch something of the thrill which has been ours as we have watched these messengers of good-will moving steadily forward amid the tumult of the times, their hope built upon a redeeming faith in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Chapter One

Amid Wars and Rumors of Wars

"In the Cross of Christ I glory, towering o'er the wrecks of time".

THE picture of the year is set upon a dark background. Perhaps this is an advantage, since the Gospel is essentially light." In this striking statement with which Miss Green begins the report from China we catch the same thought which inspires this great hymn of the Church. It is an eloquent description of a year which has brought deep anxiety to all who are interested in the extension of the Kingdom, but which has brought at the same time a clearer and deeper realization of the significance of the world mission of the Church. The wrecking of civilization drives us to our knees, where we learn again our utter dependence on the Christ of the Cross.

IN CHINA

Three years of war in China have brought vivid demonstration of the power of evil. The municipal government, under which the Mission center on Kulangsu operates, has been compelled to resign. Most American mothers and children have left other parts of China. As these words are written, a group of mothers and children from our own Mission have just landed in San Francisco. Because of the blockade, a large part of the energy of three missionaries is required to keep a constant supply of medicine, Christian literature, relief and school supplies moving into the interior. Two motor launches, the Hope and the Red Cross, carry these supplies across the lines and to the mainland. But it is increasingly difficult to comply with the strict and ever-changing regulations enforced by both sides. Institutions which have weathered the political storms of a falling dynasty, of communism and of a premature democracy, are now threatened. Yet in the midst of all this, perhaps because of it, we believe that the light of the Gospel is meeting the present situation and that its vitality and power are now best revealed.

The story of the year in China provides telling evidence to support this faith. All Christian schools are crowded, several seriously over-crowded. Their combined enrollment is almost double what it was a few years ago. And these schools give evidence of the spirit which is in them as they are faced by the special challenge of the day. The Amoy Girls' School gave $2495, national currency, to provide useful Christmas gifts to hungry refugees on Kulangsu Island. Talmage College conducts a free clinic which treats an average of forty patients a day. Such practical service gives convincing demonstration to non-Christians of the spirit of the Gospel and creates new attitudes. The thirteen Christian colleges in China, bombed out of their old quarters, have moved into the interior. Wherever they have found their new temporary sites, they have carried with them this spirit, and today, maintaining their work in improvised establishments, sometimes in little country villages, their enrollment is higher than ever before in their history.

IN JAPAN

The most difficult situation of the year is that which developed in Japan. It is of such significance that it is described in a separate chapter. Suffice it to state here that the combination of a totalitarian government, seeking to bring all organizations under its control, and a tense international crisis, have brought about a situation in which it is almost impossible for the foreigner to render helpful service. The Church itself is confronted by ever increasing demands which test its fundamental loyalty.

Yet here, too, we discover evidences of the vitality of the Church, and our missionaries have faced an almost impossible situation with calmness and courage, holding to their posts as long as effective service was possible, five of them still remaining. In the very midst of the agitation of October, Ferris Seminary, the oldest Christian school for girls in Japan, celebrated its seventieth anniversary, and a message of appreciation was cabled from students and alumnae to the Church in America. Tangible evidence of their firm purpose to continue the service of this institution was also given by a generous gift of the alumnae to the endowment fund.

IN ARABIA

The bombing of Bahrain brought home to us the fact that even in Arabia our workers were not immune from war's alarms, and as these words are written, the swift conclusion of the Balkan war, the uprising in Iraq, and the rumors of a drive toward the Suez Canal bring deeper apprehension. Yet the work has gone on steadily and our missionaries have travelled to and fro on their great mission, unhindered by these menacing movements. Dr. Van Ess, in a preamble to the report of the Arabian Mission, sets forth the fundamental philosophy of these messengers in the following eloquent words:

"There are two phrases which have within a year or two gained currency. They are Lebensraum and New Order. It is because they express essential and indeed legitimate yearnings of the human spirit. The effort to realize these yearnings has, however, taken illegitimate forms in rabid nationalism and implacable race hatred, and the methods thereto have been fear, deceit, and violence.

"Christian Missions have all along recognized the need for Lebensraum in every human soul, the need to release it from itself first of all and then to give it scope in the New Order which our Lord long ago contemplated and which He called His Kingdom. In Christ there cannot be Greek and Jew, barbarian, Scythian, bondman, freeman, and each can best be himself when he thinks first of others. To give and not to get was His method, and in giving Himself He set the program which He bids us follow. So, amid the welter of world conflict, we believe that in Arabia we have been engaged in an enterprise which must eventually solve man's essential problems and which must in the end succeed. It is only as we contemplate our own failure in following His method that we are humbled and conscious of our own inadequacy."

IN INDIA

In India alone the war has not as yet brought direct threat of danger. True, there have been many political developments growing out of the war, but there has been no restriction of the work of the Church and of the missionary. The Indian writer of the foreword to the report emphasizes, instead, the significant forward steps taken by the Church. He writes:

"The year 1940 is epoch-making in the annals of our labors in the Arcot Field. It marks the dissolution of the Arcot Assembly and the inception of the Arcot Coordinating Committee, a bold and forward step in devolution. We now stand at a new turning of the road that will lead us we know not where. We are like Israel on the banks of Jordan. We have reached an end which is also a beginning. Behind us there lie long stretches of faithful, loving toil for the Master by the Arcot Mission and the Arcot Assembly, with their glorious victories and seeming failures, hills of achievements and valleys of discouragements. All this way His unseen hand has led and guided us on our journey, but now we begin a new venture in His name and before us is an untrodden way. What, then, does this old story give us to encourage and guide us as we stand upon the threshold of the new order?"

In August, 1940, this new body entitled The Arcot Coordinating Committee held its inaugural meeting. With the exception of the direct evangelistic effort of the churches and the village schools related to them, all the work formerly administered by the Arcot Mission and then, later, by the Arcot Assembly, is now under the direction of this newly-formed Committee. It is different from the Assembly in being smaller, the total membership not exceeding thirty. This will, we believe, bring greater efficiency. But the outstanding distinction is that, whereas the Assembly included all missionaries, this body is elected from the membership of the South India United Church without distinction between Indian and missionary. Thus it is Church-centered and its creation marks an almost final step in the devolution of authority from Mission to Church. The fact that the stationing of missionaries and even the vote upon their return after their first furlough are prerogatives of this committee further emphasizes this fact.

OUR MISSIONARIES

In the pages which follow we shall hear more of the achievements of the Missions and Churches in these countries. It remains to emphasize here the general effect of the war situation upon our own missionaries. In country after country situations have developed which have led our State Department to issue advice to American citizens to return home. India is the only one of our fields where this warning has not been given. Some have been withdrawn, particularly mothers and children, from areas where the danger seemed most imminent, but others have carried on, with the full consent of our political representatives, who have evidenced a sympathetic understanding of the importance of the work of the missionary. The Mediterranean has been closed to us for many months, but by way of the Cape of Good Hope or across the broad waters of the Pacific, these ambassadors of good will have continued to travel to and from their appointed stations. Their steady purpose has been an inspiration to those among whom they labor and to the Church at home. There is increasing evidence that many who in the past have failed to appreciate the significance of their service now have come to fuller understanding, as they have seen them carrying on their mission of healing and good will, binding up the wounds of the nations, building up as others tear down. They give us a vision of the Church of Jesus Christ, world-wide, whose fellowship cannot be broken even by the tides of war hatred.

A paragraph from the Amoy Report gives apt comment upon the whole situation which we face:

"Only when we look at the whole picture can we get a proper perspective. To the Chinese for whom a revolution occupies but a moment, and to the Christian who must see from eternity to eternity, this should not be too difficult. We shall rejoice but not be deceived when skies are clear and the air is bracing; neither will we be cast down when storms thunder and take comrades from us, for the Church of Christ is founded upon a Rock."

Chapter Two

The New Order In Japan

"We must obey God rather than men."

THE NATION

WITHIN the nation, the year 1940 was commemorated as the 2600th anniversary of the founding of the empire of Jimmu Tenno. The year was also marked by the replacement of the Yonai cabinet by a second Konoe cabinet, the voluntary dissolution of all political parties, and the decision, under Prince Konoe's leadership, to institute a new national structure, embracing and unifying the economic, industrial, political, educational, and ideological life of the people.

The bombshell of the year was the conclusion of the Tripartite Alliance with Germany and Italy and the consequent orientation of all foreign policy in harmony with this agreement. In the closing months of the year, apparently partly in reaction to our State Department's advice, efforts have been put forth to persuade America that Japan's attitude is not hostile. The appointment of Admiral Nomura as Ambassador may be instanced as a clear example. At the time of this writing, however, with the conclusion of the neutrality agreement with Japan's ancient foe, Russia, and the general success of the Axis powers in the Balkans, there is renewed pressure on the part of more radical leaders to press forward in ambitious plans for the "New Order" in Asia.

THE CHURCH

Plans had been broached in the autumn of 1939 by the leading churches, looking forward as Christian patriots to the holding of a Christian mass-meeting in Tokyo on October 17, 1940, in commemoration of the 2600th anniversary of the empire. The churches were also looking forward, as the year opened, to the coming into force of the "Religious Bodies Law" in April, under which for the first time Christianity was to receive formal recognition as one of the religions of Japan. No drastic changes in church life were anticipated, though it was clear that closer government supervision involved more intimate and formal linking of church life and activity with the national policy and program. Up to the early summer the various denominations pursued their separate plans to conform to requirements for registration as chartered religious bodies. When, however, a ruling was announced that such recognition was dependent on a minimum of fifty churches and five thousand members, some of the smaller bodies took steps to unite with each other or with one of the larger denominations. Thus a great impetus was given to church union, which has been aggressively promoted for a long time by an active group of members of many churches.

In August, coincident with a spy scare and propaganda against reliance on Great Britain and America, Salvation Army leaders were taken into custody and Japanese bishops of the Anglican Church, the "Seikokai", at once took steps to dissociate it from foreign leadership and finances. These events created an atmosphere of anxiety and dismay within all the churches, as well as in the Christian schools, which naturally desired to escape or forestall further adverse efforts of outside pressure. It had become clear that the situation called for the elimination of missionaries from administrative positions, independence of foreign subsidies and positive cooperation within the national structure.

The entire situation strengthened the movement toward church union and led to the issuance of a manifesto at the great gathering on October 17th, pledging loyalty and declaring the intention of the Protestant churches to achieve organic union. This unofficial action was later implemented by the organization of a joint commission, composed of representatives officially chosen by the denominations concerned, (the Seikokai being a major exception) with broad powers to act. This body must frame proposals for organization, ministry, and creed acceptable not only to the uniting groups but also to the government authorities, with a view to securing a charter effective April 1, 1941.

Meantime the Christian schools, led by the Christian Educational Association, took separate action. A meeting of the heads of these schools held early in September issued advice that foreigners registered as official "founders" of schools and those serving as Chairmen of Boards of Trustees and as Presidents, Principals, and Deans be replaced by Japanese; that governing Boards be organized with an absolute majority of Japanese members and that plans be set up for dispensing with subsidies from foreign sources. Practically all schools have taken steps toward the realization of these policies.

Inevitably the force of the movement toward autonomy operated to circumscribe the field of missionary activity. Not only were missionaries being moved from executive positions, but restrictions were being placed upon their pastoral service and preaching, the subjects taught by them in classrooms, and their personal evangelism; and besides their standing within the national churches was, at least in some cases, eliminated. In consequence, it was felt by some missions and missionaries that they could no longer serve fruitfully. Later in the year a partial reaction asserted itself. Pressures felt on the missionary body from Japanese sources appreciably lessened and as the year closed the missionaries were being assured by the national churches which they had sought to serve that some place would be made for them in church and school.

The situation discussed above has been considerably clarified through the visit of a representative deputation from the Christian Church in Japan to the United States. This group met with a like group from the American Church at Riverside, California, at the end of April. A new united Church of Christ in Japan has now come into being, with the Old and New Testaments and the Apostles' Creed as its standard of faith. It has resulted from the interaction of influences both within and without the Christian Movement, but is the consummation of the long-cherished desire of Christians in Japan. The leaders of this Church made it unmistakably clear that they welcome the help of Christians from other lands in the work of the Church. To them the missionary task is not done in Japan and there are still large opportunities for distinctive service of missionaries who will work under the direction of the Church of Christ in Japan.

THE MISSION

Dr. L. J. Shafer, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, was in Japan, arriving August 4th, for the first three eventful months of this epochal period and again briefly at the close of the year. Seldom has a secretarial visit proved more timely, both in respect of opportunity for first-hand observation of conditions and developments and also in respect of offering guidance to the Mission. "His presence during these critical months was for us a high privilege, even beyond our anticipation", writes the author of the Mission report.

The developments of the latter part of the year have called for many changes. Among the more important actions taken are the transfer of our responsibility for church extension in Kyushu to the Kyushu Classis, the approval of transfer of all evangelistic properties to the holding body of the Church of Christ in Japan, to be held in trust for the local churches, and the determination of a new status for the missionary as a "special missionary" without the Church but related to it. Generous actions were also taken by the Mission and Board in recognition of the difficult situation faced by churches and institutions, turning over certain properties to schools and to the Classis of Kyushu, to relieve the strain of discontinuance of regular grants. Provision was also made for the continuance of pensions to retired evangelists and widows formerly associated with the Mission. It is too early to know just what will be the final policy of schools but there is reason to hope that while regular grants must be discontinued we may still be able to make special gifts to help these institutions as they continue in their task of Christian character building under the guidance of our Japanese Christian brethren.

By the end of January, 1941, all mothers and children of our Mission had left Japan. The Board definitely advised their withdrawal and also urged that those in short term service, those whose furloughs were due at an early date and any not in good health, should return promptly. Beyond that it has been left largely to individual decision, as conditions are different in different parts of the country. Some have found it impossible to render effective service where the community has been particularly antagonistic to foreigners. One cannot help one's friend if to visit him means to expose him to the suspicions of local police. At this time, therefore, there are left in Japan only Miss Couch, Miss Darrow, Dr. Stegeman, Mr. Moore, and Mr. Ter Borg. The prayers of the Church are with them as they stand by, some still teaching in schools, all by their very presence testifying to our Japanese Christian friends that the fellowship of the followers of Christ cannot be broken by any of the devices of man.

Chapter Three

The Missionary

"Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He send forth laborers into His harvest."

DURING the past year one of our missionaries who had won an almost unique place in the affections of the Church, was called to his reward. Dr. James Cantine was best known as one of the founders of the Arabian Mission and the great story of those pioneer days was brought back to us vividly when in 1939 he participated in an active campaign throughout the Church in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of that Mission. It was also in large part his vision and enterprise which led to the founding of the United Mission in Mesopotamia in 1924, and he spent the later years of his active service in that Mission, retiring finally in 1929.

Dr. Cantine died on July 1st, 1940, at Kingston, New York and the funeral services were held in the Fair Street Kingston Church where he was ordained as a missionary to Arabia on October 1st, 1889. Possessed of rare gifts of personality, Dr. Cantine has left an enduring mark upon the work in Arabia and Iraq and he has left a host of friends who will never forget his noble qualities of mind and spirit.

Reference was made in last year's report to the death of John De Boer on April 28th, 1940. The months since have brought to the offices of the Board letters and resolutions from many quarters, in particular from Indian friends, which give eloquent proof of the deep affection which he had won during his service of eighteen years in India.

As this report is being written a cablegram has been received announcing also the death of Miss Delia M. Houghton at Vellore on April 25th, 1941. Miss Houghton was one of the oldest missionaries in active service in the Arcot Mission. She went out as a nurse in 1908 and throughout her entire career was active in Vellore, first in the Mary Taber Schell Hospital and later in the Union Missionary Medical College with which that hospital is associated. Miss Houghton was quiet, unassuming, always faithful and utterly devoted to her Master's service.

These losses bring home to us again the need of recruits. Because of the financial stringencies of recent years, the gaps in the ranks have not been filled. In 1929 there were 179 missionaries in the active service of the Board; today there are 137. While we have recalled very few, the death and retirement of older missionaries have led to this serious reduction in staff. Nor is that the only aspect of the situation which causes alarm. Because there have been comparatively few replacements in recent years the average age of the active missionaries has risen and we have entirely too meagre a force of those to whom we can look for long service in the critical days which lie ahead.

Because of these grave conditions we are happy to report upon some recent additions to the ranks. During the year just closed the Rev. and Mrs. John H. Piet have sailed for India to take up evangelistic work there. They are the first married couple to be appointed to India since 1929 and during that period six married couples have been lost to the Mission through death or retirement. Miss Roelphine Bakker also sailed during the year and is now in active service as a missionary nurse in Bahrain.

Further appointments have been made within the year under review. Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Nykerk were appointed to Arabia in November, 1940. Dr. Nykerk is a graduate of Hope College and of Marquette University School of Medicine. It had been hoped that they could sail this autumn. Fearing that conditions might grow worse, however, this fine young couple suggested that they go out this spring and so when Dr. and Mrs. Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. Van Peursem sailed on the first of March these recruits went with them. The impending retirement of Dr. and Mrs. Mylrea makes this appointment particularly timely. At a very recent meeting the Board has also appointed Mr. Gordon Van Wyk, Hope College, 1940, to short term service in India. Mr. Van Wyk's father and mother served for a short term in India before ill-health compelled their return.

The Board has been making a careful study of the unusual situation created by the return of so many missionaries from Japan and China. Miss Florence Walvoord has been transferred to the Arcot Mission where her experience as a teacher will be valuable and she can perform useful service while awaiting opportunity for return to Japan. It is important that other missionaries now in America shall find temporary avenues of service while they too look forward to the dawn of a better day in Japan. Some may not return and will seek permanent service here. But the critical question is the finding of appropriate tasks for those who will be classified as missionaries on furlough but who may be detained beyond the usual period. The Domestic Boards have been approached and it is hoped that methods of effective cooperation may be discovered, the missionary remaining on the rolls of the Board but being assigned to tasks at home. Rev. Bruno Bruns has already been appointed to take up work in the Virgin Islands in June and it is hoped that others with the background of experience in Japan may be particularly useful in contacts with Japanese in this country.

The travel of so many missionaries has brought heavy expense to the Board. It is our purpose also to continue the support, at least in large part, of those who are detained here temporarily, even where appointed to service under another Board. It is believed that in this way we may best conserve the service of these missionaries for the Church and at the same time be fully prepared for the day for which we hope and pray, when they may return to the task in Japan for which they have been called and specially trained.

Chapter Four

The China Centenary

"Being confident of this very thing, that He who began a good work in you will perfect it".

IT is fitting that we include in this Report some reference to the pioneer days of the Amoy Mission, as the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of its founding is to be a special feature of our church year 1941-42.

Our first missionary to China, the Rev. David Abeel, landed at Amoy on February 24, 1842, six months before the signing of the treaty of Nanking, which opened Amoy and four other China ports to world commerce. He had labored among the seamen at Canton; he had been chaplain for the foreign community at Singapore for a year; he had also made extensive trips to Java, Siam, and to Borneo, where our Church established the short lived North Borneo Mission in 1836 largely as a result of his impassioned appeals. It was a distinctly Chinese Mission, however, and when indications pointed to the opening of Amoy, the port from which all these Chinese of Borneo had emigrated, with that clear conception of missionary strategy which characterized him, Abeel made his way to that important center and began work there.

In this brief sketch it is impossible to give any detailed account of the missionaries who followed or of the institutions which sprang up one after the other as a result of their activities. Dr. Abeel was forced because of ill health to leave after only two years, but before his departure the Rev. Elihu Doty and the Rev. William John Pohlman had arrived—being transferred from the Mission in Borneo—and the years since have witnessed a succession of able, well-trained missionaries who have written an important page in the history of missions in China.

INTER-MISSION COOPERATION

There are certain distinctive features of the work in China which should be emphasized. The first is the fine spirit of cooperation which has marked its relationship with other Missions. From the very outset the missionaries of our Church, the English Presbyterian and the London Mission have worked and prayed together in an unstrained fellowship. In the very early days the two Talmage sisters and two members each of the other two Missions used to share their tasks, usually traveling in pairs, each with one of another Mission, so that all became familiar with the whole field. In such an atmosphere of whole-hearted devotion to the common cause the building up of one united Church was natural and the development in time of the unified medical and educational program. It is interesting to note that the need of implementing this spirit of fellowship by the formation of a joint council was not felt until 1924, when the "Inter-Mission Council" was formally organized.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE CHURCH

The first baptisms are recorded in 1846. Two men of advanced years made the great decision. Only two years later the first church was erected in Amoy, which was also the first Protestant church building for distinctively Chinese worship in all China. Built to accommodate five hundred when the Christian constituency numbered but two individuals, it has amply vindicated the faith and vision of its founders and has proved to be a veritable mother of churches. Today there are five other churches on Amoy island which have grown out of it and on the neighboring island of Kulangsu are two large churches, one at least springing directly from the thriving churches in Amoy. On a Sunday morning it is an inspiring sight today to see great congregations of about one thousand members each pouring out of the doors of these two great churches.

The definite organization of the Church dates from 1856 when 194 believers were in the care of our own and the English Presbyterian Mission. An historic decision was then made. The General Synod of our Church instructed the "brethren in Amoy" to "erect a Classis" which should be connected with the Particular Synod of Albany. Under the leadership of the Rev. John Van Nest Talmage and influenced by the spirit which had marked the work from its beginning, our missionaries in Amoy refused to comply and uniting with their fellow-workers of the English Presbyterian Mission proceeded to organize the South Fukien United Church, the London Mission later entering also into this fellowship. This far-reaching decision is a milestone in the history of Missions. Accepted later by our General Synod it has become our settled policy for all fields and has undoubtedly influenced many other denominations. The organization of The Church of Christ in China in 1927 of which the South Fukien United Church and twelve other denominations are now a part, was a final cap stone to the pioneer building of our missionaries in Amoy.

ROMANIZED COLLOQUIAL

A great contribution was also made by the Mission through the introduction of a new Romanized alphabet which greatly simplified the reading of a language which in its original intricate characters was unintelligible save to the few. This new alphabet was first tried out in 1850, being taught to classes of boys by blackboard exercises. Printing was done in Dr. Talmage's home from type cut from bone or horn and afterwards from wooden blocks. The first Bible portion was printed in 1853, the book of Ruth, and in following years one after the other, additional books of the Bible were translated and printed. Today, as a result of the consecrated and inspired genius of those early missionaries, there is a remarkably literate Church, with the whole Bible, Sunday School lessons, a Hymn Book and hundreds of textbooks and tracts available for those to whom the old difficult character writing was a closed book.

AMOY GIRLS' SCHOOL

In this Mission, characterized by so many unique features, it is interesting to note that the first school was a Girls' School, begun on May 11, 1846. In most countries this was a much later development and perhaps this strange reversal is due to a peculiar interest on the part of the founder, as we read that when David Abeel left China, presumably on his way home, he visited London and was instrumental in organizing there a "Society for the Promotion of Female Education in the East." Out of this early beginning has grown the Amoy Girls' School, formally organized in 1870, which today has grown to be a flourishing Middle School with an enrollment of 400 students.

MEDICAL WORK

The first medical missionary sent out by our Board was Dr. Johannes Abraham Otte, who with his wife joined the Mission in 1888. He has the distinction of having founded two hospitals, for which he also, in large part, secured the necessary funds, Neerbosch Hospital at Sio-khe and Hope and Wilhelmina on Kulangsu. Neerbosch Hospital was named after a town in the Netherlands where there was an orphanage at which Dr. Otte gave an address on his work. After his address a little girl pressed upon him two copper coins for his work, which were the nucleus of the fund which was raised for the first hospital. On a later visit to the Netherlands a society for the support of medical work in China was formed there and when the building for which they supplied the funds was completed, the Queen graciously consented that it be named in her honor. For many years that society contributed generously to the support of the Hope and Wilhelmina Hospital and only a few years ago a friend of those early days made a gift of several thousand dollars in order that the Rev. Walter de Velder, who had married a daughter of Dr. Otte, might be sent out to China.

Dr. Otte died in 1910 of typhus fever but his influence is still felt in China, not only in the splendid hospitals which have developed from his original foundation but through the lives of a large group of Chinese doctors whom he personally trained and who have become outstanding leaders in the Christian community of South Fukien.

CENTENARY OBJECTIVES

To commemorate these one hundred years of distinctive service the Mission proposes certain objectives. First, they emphasize the need of reinforcements. Of the eight ordained missionaries now in service three are to retire within the next ten years. There is already a long list of both single and married missionaries who have died or left the service of the Mission within the past ten years, many of whom have not been replaced. The very existence of the Mission is threatened by such wholesale reductions and now, though war conditions make the future uncertain the Mission issues the challenge to young people of the Church to dedicate themselves to this high task and to be ready to go out to China as soon as the way is open.

They ask further that the Church in America cooperate with them in a concerted attempt to raise the educational standards of the ministry in China. Only one of our Chinese pastors is a college graduate. A fund of some $10,000, contributed not through the regular channels of church giving but as a spontaneous response from individuals, would make possible a careful plan for training some of the well qualified young Chinese who should be prepared for a more effective ministry.

The great challenge of the program comes from the Church in China. They have named their own definite goal, that before the centenary year of 1942 is ended, the Gospel shall be preached in every home in South Fukien. Already some of the areas have reached the goal. The men and women of the Church are working with pastors and with missionaries that this great spiritual objective may be realized.

Surely there could be no greater call to our Church at home than this. Today we, too, face critical times as tides of nationalism sweep over the nation. Can we not as a Church learn something of the road which we should follow from these stalwart Chinese Christians who have moved steadily forward in the throes of a national catastrophe? Like them we must pray that we be kept from hatred. Like them we must launch a great spiritual movement to reach out into every community and touch every home with the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The Church must sound the sure note today to baffled and bewildered men, desperately seeking a foundation on which to build.

The Church in China is a Church in prayer. For years all their planning has rested upon the basis of a simple petition of moving humility, "Revive Thy Church, O Lord, beginning with me." Let us unite with them in that prayer and so find in this year of commemoration a new and living consciousness of the indestructible Church of Christ, a fellowship of all nations.

Chapter Five

The Church At Work Abroad

"Precept upon precept, line upon line....here a little, there a little".

THIS will be a long chapter for in it we must take you to five foreign countries and catch a glimpse of the many types of work being done there. We have seen something of the general situation in each country against the background of war and political movements, but the core of the whole enterprise is the actual work of individuals in church, market-place, hospital, and school. That work goes on day by day, year by year, and varies little, whatever earth shaking events may occur. Jesus was born in a stormy time but the enduring impressions of His career are found in His contacts with individuals. Men and women are hungry and they are filled, they are anxious and they are joyful, they are born and they die and every situation affords an opportunity for the service of the Church.

CHINA

THE CHURCHES

That a young church can live through war, when many of her chapels and workers are within range of big guns and all her members are subject to "airblitz" and blockade, is surprising enough. But that a church weak in leadership, weak in education, weak in finance, and weak in all that the world counts essential, grows strong and vital in the face of great odds, is indeed beyond nature.

There are 14,000 communicants in the church of South Fukien, which is now organized in seven Classes. Many have been forced to leave their homes; many, as in every church, are but lukewarm. Amoy City, the center, is cut off from the rest of the church by military occupation. Yet of the fourteen churches of the Amoy Classis which were functioning at the fall of Amoy City, twelve are holding regular services and all have been able to finance themselves and even give bonuses to workers suffering from the drastic increase in the cost of living. The necessary funds come principally from members who have gone abroad or to Kulangsu. In spite of personal trials they do not forget the church.

Moreover this church is girding itself for a significant celebration next year of the one hundredth anniversary of its founding. As a result of the central aim of the celebration,—the carrying of the Gospel into every home in South Fukien,—already a great evangelistic movement is going forward. Amoy Classis reports an addition of 233 members on confession of faith, thirty more than last year. On Kulangsu Island seventy persons signed cards pledging themselves to undertake a program of family visitation. They attended special training classes for a month and then began a systematic canvass. The island was divided into three districts and each group of three workers was given thirty house numbers for which it was to be responsible. After seven weeks five thousand homes had been visited and had heard the Gospel message. This is typical of the spiritual movement which is astir in China.

A little church in the Sio-khe district sends an interesting report. Pho-a was a run-down outstation of the Ho-san Church. It has been brought to life again through the work of a retired Chinese preacher, Chhoa Chin-hun. Before he came, Pho-a presented such a discouraging aspect that a young preacher who went there stayed only three days. Bandits and soldiers had repeatedly occupied the chapel and all the furniture had been stolen. Mr. Chhoa began with nothing but his own faith, good humor, and courage. He has brought all the old members back to church and has gained also new hearers. Another little church in the same district, Siang-khe, announces that already the Centenary aim has been realized there and the Gospel message has been brought to every home in that area. It is interesting to read that of the fifty-two members of consistory in the Sio-khe District, thirty-four attended a four day conference. The active enlistment of laymen is one of the most significant features of the whole program in South Fukien.

An interesting experiment is reported by the An-khoe church in Tong-an District. This is a Bible-reading class. The members agree to read several chapters each week and to report to the Secretary the number of chapters read. When people are reading for the second year the preacher asks questions on the chapters read each week, to see if they are reading intelligently. Once a month a consecration service is held when the members give a verse or passage which has been especially helpful to them. There are eighty members in this class and other churches have also organized along these lines.

The North River District, closed for many years because of the military activities of the "Red Army," this year broke all records. The first Training Institute for lay workers was held; two church buildings were erected where there was none before; the Leng-na Church received the largest number of members in any year of its history; two organizations were formed in the Leng-na church for the enlisting or help of inquirers; the first harvest festival ever held in the district was successfully celebrated at the Eng-hok church and the first retreat for elders and deacons was held in that church; two new preachers were added in the district; work for women was started again after eleven years. These sentences sum up some of the items in the story of progress in the North River District during 1940.

These are but a few facts culled from the report of the year, to illustrate the life of the churches in South Fukien, carrying on so steadily in the face of extremely difficult conditions.

THE SCHOOLS

School after school reports great increase in enrollment, in some cases even small village schools gaining increased prominence because of the quick shifting of population in these days. The little school at Soa-sia in Changchow District increased its enrollment from 20 to 140 pupils as Soa-sia rapidly changed from a sleepy little market place to a busy county seat. Another thrilling story of service comes from Thah-thau, a little village in the same district. The teacher had left to study in the Seminary. In the midst of his course he was so disturbed by the falling off of the school which he had left that he went back to his old post to build up the school and the church. The enrollment quickly rose from 20 to 105 and the teacher opened also a night school, with 68 young men in attendance. In addition, the young man has charge of all the church work in this mountain village.

Other schools report also rapid advance, Changchow Primary with over 400 in attendance, Sio-khe with over 300, the largest number it has ever had. Difficulty has been experienced in securing properly qualified teachers to handle the situation. From the Livingstone Easter School at Tong-an comes an interesting story of the Chinese Principal, Mr. Beh. As a result of illness he was absent for three months. The educational supervisor was much impressed to find the school, with several new and inexperienced teachers, carrying on so well in his absence. When he commented upon it, Mr. Beh gave this interesting testimony: "Shall I tell you the reason? It is not only because they cooperate, but why do they cooperate? It is because this is a Christian school; we are working for the Lord. He is our head and my work at present is to pray for them while they carry on."

TALMAGE COLLEGE

It is possible to note only a few illustrations like these of a comprehensive program of education which undergirds the work of the Church. In the following chapter reference will be made to some of the Girls' Schools which report similar growth in the midst of adverse conditions. There should be included here, however, a brief statement concerning our highest educational institution in China, Talmage College, formerly located at Changchow, but now like so many other institutions transferred to temporary quarters in a little village in the interior with a normal population of about 700. Special emphasis is laid in the report upon improved relationships with provincial educational authorities. County officials also cooperate effectively and working with the Principal raised almost $10,000 (national currency) for an assembly hall and two large classrooms. The enrollment is about 475.

Particularly noteworthy, also, is the fine service of the institution to community and Church. In the spring term 100,000 seedlings, most of which were sold to farmers, were transplanted to neighboring hill-sides. Many teachers and students have their own gardens and thus help to solve the problem of the high cost of living. A school dispensary treats about forty people daily and during the year one hundred ounces of quinine were received from the International Relief Committee of Kulangsu and distributed in the fight against the prevailing disease of malaria. Under the director of religious work, five Sunday Schools were maintained in nearby villages and preaching services were held weekly in a sixth. Eight students united with the church and an assistant teacher entered the Seminary. When the final history of the Church in China is written, there will be a glowing page to record the effect upon rural China of the transplanting of scores of Christian institutions from their old centers to villages in the interior. "They that were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word."

The South Fukien Union Theological Seminary is also now located in the hinterland. To the joy of Dr. De Pree, who has given many years of teaching to this institution, twenty-six young men are now taking examinations with a view to becoming ordained pastors. The North River Classis, which throughout its history has ordained only two pastors, now has four men preparing for ordination. While a majority of these men are without a high school diploma, it is earnestly hoped that their ordination will not mark the end of their schooling. This year two ordained pastors were studying at Fukien Christian University and preparations are being made for others to follow them. One of the direct aims of the Centenary is to raise the educational standard of pastors in South Fukien.

MEDICAL WORK

Perhaps the most effective but least appreciated work of Mission Hospitals has been their training of Chinese doctors and nurses. But when the general exodus from the coast to the hinterland occurred, the value of the services of these men and women was revealed. It is now seldom that a county seat does not have a mission-trained doctor and frequently he is the best physician for many miles around. These mission-trained doctors provide much-needed church leadership as well as a means of maintaining a measure of good health in rural communities.

Hope and Wilhelmina Hospital, with eight doctors, fifty nurses, and a full staff of more than 100 workers, has this year treated 53,766 out-patients and 2,260 in-patients, making a total of more than 56,000. Of these out-patients, 23,200 were treated at the Refugee Camp and almost 8,000 at the New Poor Clinic. Moreover the Nursing School which Miss Nienhuis started and of which Miss Veldman is principal, has supplied the up-country medical work with ten graduate nurses.

The Blauvelt Memorial Hospital at Tong-an is a branch of the Hope and Wilhelmina Hospital. Because of the difficulty of communications, the supervision which Dr. Oltman has been able to give was limited and medical efficiency was not of a high order. But a surprising amount of work has been done. The Clinic patients numbered 9,726 and in-patients 777. Because of the poverty of the people about one-third of this work has been charity. This has been possible only because of gifts of money from the American Red Cross Advisory Committee and from the Tong-an local Refugee Committee, and 200 ounces of quinine from friends in the Philippines.

The Changchow Union Hospital, of which Dr. Hofstra is Superintendent, in addition to its own work has had supervision over three branch hospitals, the Neerbosch Hospital at Sio-khe, the Fagg Memorial Hospital at Leng-na, and the General Hospital at Changpu. Because of the limited amount of medical service given by the local doctors, the work of these hospitals has perhaps never been of greater value to the people.

The Changchow Hospital began the year with five doctors, but during the busy summer months had only three. Dr. Harmon of the London Missionary Society, who is still studying the language, joined the staff toward the end of the year. The nursing staff has numbered more than thirty, among whom have been three missionaries, Miss Platz, Miss Boot, and one British nurse. With this small staff, 46,638 out-patients and 2,287 in-patients were treated.

A perusal of these brief excerpts from the report of the year reveals how thoroughly the medical work is now organized, the entire staff and all the hospitals of the three Missions operating in this area being under one central administration. The spirit of these institutions is shown in the first sentence of the Constitution of the new Board of Managers of Hope and Wilhelmina Hospital, a sentence placed first on the insistence of a Chinese member of the Board. It reads, "The Purpose of these hospitals shall be; to proclaim the Gospel of Salvation" This great work has now for many years been supported by income on the Field, the Missions contributing only the necessary missionary staff and their salaries.

INDIA

THE BOARD OF ADMINISTRATION

Reference was made in the first chapter to the important change in organization whereby a small committee has come to replace the Arcot Assembly in direction of institutional work. Corresponding changes have also been made in the organization of the activities of the churches themselves and the direct evangelistic work which they supervise. For fifteen years this work has been under the direction of a Board of Administration, in which were included representatives of the Church of Scotland Mission. That Mission was not prepared to accept some of the changes proposed and to our great regret has withdrawn, for the present at least, from this Board. A new name has been adopted, The Indian Church Board, and under its supervision all the evangelistic work for women has been included, with provision for adequate representation of women on the Board. This will, we believe, give a more thoroughly integrated program of approach to the villages of the area, in which the development of leadership among the women is of vital importance.

These changes bring some confusion into our statistics, as, for instance a comparison of the 30,000 of last year with the 26,000 reported this year as comprising the Christian community. The decrease indicates simply the omission of some of the figures for the Church of Scotland Mission area.

Baptisms during the year amounted to the significant total of 1266, of whom 388 were adults and 878 children. Of these the majority came from three villages in the Chittoor and Serkadu areas. Especially noteworthy was the enthusiasm with which these villagers adopted obligations with a spirit too often unseen in older Christian organizations. Not satisfied with their own local transformation some searched out relatives in distant places and persuaded them also to participate in the new-found life.

The gain in the communicant membership of the Church was 180, bringing the total to 8,431. The baptized non-communicants number 6,139 and the unbaptized adherents 750. Of the latter 569 were received during the year. These groups constitute a section of church membership that calls for special attention. However greatly we may rejoice over the fact that our total Christian community now exceeds 26,000, we may not relax until those who have expressed a preliminary desire to join our fellowship are instructed sufficiently to make an intelligent decision for Christ, sealed by the rite of baptism and until the adult non-communicants are members in full communion with the Church.

Reports from churches throughout the area convey a strong impression of the awakening consciousness of obligation to build a really indigenous church. In the early days it was necessary to give liberal help to small congregations, recruited from classes desperately poor. Today a new conception is developing, resulting partly from political developments which emphasize a spirit of independence. Further stimulus has come from some of the exigencies of war. A considerable section of Christian Missions has suddenly been cut off from foreign aid. The splendid response to their cry for help by churches both in India and in other lands whose communications have not been impaired, as also the remarkable adaptation to these tragic circumstances of the younger churches thus affected, gives proof of the virility of the world Christian brotherhood. It is therefore of no little significance that the Chairmen of the various "Circles" into which our area is divided report that a constantly growing number of congregations are erecting their own churches and schoolhouses with little or no call upon the funds of the Board.

The Jacob Chamberlain Memorial Church of Madanapalle celebrated its Diamond Jubilee in September. The program provided effective demonstration of the growth and strength of the Christian community. Public historical meetings in Telugu and English were held and there was a Fellowship Dinner at which eight hundred Christians sat down together. This same year marked another significant event when a unique type of union church was established at the nearby village of Arogyavaram, where the Union Mission Tuberculosis Sanatorium is located. The members of the staff are of many different denominations. This church will provide for the Christian worship and service of these members of many communions and still maintain ecclesiastical connection with the South India United Church.

The Chairman of the Chittoor Circle, Rev. Arthur John, records the re-occupation of an old village with a church membership of fifty-three. Some of the older workers recall an experience of many years ago when the Rev. James A. Beattie found this village of Ambodapalle so unresponsive that he knelt under a tree and prayed with tears. On rising from his knees he said to one of the evangelists, "Cast thy bread upon the waters for thou shalt find it after many days." The prophecy has been realized with joy in the re-establishment of the church there.

In Serkadu Circle, under the chairmanship of a fine young Indian pastor, the Rev. Joseph John, a similar rebirth is recorded. Oddanthangel is a village where many years ago Christian work was introduced but for some reason or other was later discontinued. The Spirit of God continued to work in that village, however, and through the inspired efforts of one lone Christian the entire village was recently baptized. In addition, fifteen families which in the course of years had migrated to the Kolar Gold Fields 180 miles distant, also gave heed to the call and in that distant place were added to the church. A tiled church building is nearing completion in the little village and was to be dedicated to the service of the Lord before the end of the year.

June 19th was a great day for the whole Serkadu group of villages. A large group of men and women, after systematic instruction, that day made confession of faith and joined the communicant membership of the church. On a rising mount central to the Pastorate, with a full moon majestically overhead, these people partook of their first Lord's Supper. The hill was named Mt. Zion and on its brow a small church is nearing completion. Since that time, every month on the Sabbath nearest full moon, the Lord's Supper is celebrated there. Missionaries and Indian pastors come as celebrants, two hundred or more Christians from villages near and far come to partake of the happy feast so central to our faith, in fellowship with the Lord and with one another.

The whole Arcot area is divided into six Circles for the purpose of organizing the work among the villages. The Vellore Circle contains twenty-two churches and responsibility for the whole evangelistic outreach into these villages rests upon the central Vellore church. This year that church for the first time spent 4,000 Rupees, or more than $1,200, on this village work, which is supervised by the pastor of the central church, Rev. S. Ponnurangam. It is not possible to review fully the work being done in all these Circles. As at home so in India there are the disappointments and failures and there are the occasions for joy as the work is signally blessed. These few examples may serve to illustrate the general principles emphasized and to draw us into closer fellowship with these individuals, missionaries and Indians, who are quietly carrying on the work of the Kingdom in some of these distant and obscure outposts.

KATPADI AGRICULTURAL INSTITUTE

Cruce et aratro. "By the cross and the plow." This was the motto of the Benedictine monks in the Middle Ages as they were bringing the Gospel of Jesus Christ to Europe. It is the motto of our farm and school at Katpadi.

January, 1940, marked a milestone in the operation of the Farm. During the depression, in 1935, the Assembly, seeking ways to balance its budget, voted "that the Agricultural Institute be continued on the understanding that the agricultural side of the work become self-supporting in five years." "The eventful day was upon us", writes Mr. De Valois. "The school staff and practical teacher farmers of our organization were taken into our confidence and a profit-sharing-work responsibility policy was outlined and adopted. A diversified farm operating at a profit on land considered absolutely hopeless twelve years ago is a good example to India."

An interesting center has developed at the Farm. It is the headquarters for the young Indian pastor of Serkadu Circle, and his wife, a graduate of the Union Missionary Medical School, runs a popular dispensary which is a great boon to villages for miles around. This is purely voluntary work, even the funds for the little dispensary building being supplied by the pastor and his wife from their wedding gifts. And out from this center go the pastor and the consecrated trained farmer, carrying the Gospel to the villages and together building a growing indigenous church. A school is also maintained, where students and staff begin the day in the fields and work out an education designed to prepare India's youth for service in rural India. Mr. De Valois is carrying on a type of work peculiarly in demand in India today. It is the type of education strongly advocated by Mohatma Gandhi himself but with the addition of a deep Christian emphasis and today it is a center, therefore, which is drawing visitors from near and far.

KATPADI INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTE

Dr. B. Rottschaefer continues to carry on this work without financial assistance. Here, too, a great contribution is being made to the building up of a self-supporting church.

One interesting feature of the year was the inauguration of a determined fight against debt, one of the greatest curses of India. Money lenders are at the gates every pay day like vultures devouring every penny of wages earned by many of the employees, often because they had been cheated by money lenders charging as high as 200% of interest per year,—or more. Exhortation is useless. Drastic measures were therefore adopted. Creditors were informed that all who were in debt would be dismissed unless their creditors approached the management with a fair proposition for settlement by scaling down their debts made hopeless by exorbitant interest. Result—a reduction of 50% of the debt in some cases and a definite step toward a solvent group of debtors.

Another venture is the cooperative construction of a new village of thirty-three substantial houses for our workers. A plan of monthly payments has been worked out so that each family will have its own home at the end of ten years.

THE SCHOOLS

A highly varied program is carried on in India. Institutions which train the boys on farm and in the shop have just been described and other schools of somewhat similar character provide for the training of Indian girlhood. These will be noted in the following chapter. In addition there are many schools providing a more formal education. These include two secondary schools for boys and five Elementary Boys' Schools. Two secondary schools and eight elementary are also maintained for girls and in addition a school for teachers' training. Higher education is provided in Voorhees College and in union institutions in which we cooperate. For the scattered villages 153 elementary schools are also provided, these being directly under the supervision of the Indian Church Board.

To the American, accustomed to our scale of expenditure for education, such a program must appear fantastically impossible in view of the size of our budget. The explanation is found in the substantial receipts in India. The total of tuition and boarding fees and government grants received by these institutions last year, not including any of the higher grade union institutions, was 131,196 Rupees, or $40,000 in round numbers. The total grant from the Board of Foreign Missions for the same purposes was less than $10,000. The grand total raised in India from all sources and for all types of work was 218,809 Rupees, more than $66,000. The appropriations of the Board for all mission work in India, not including salaries and maintenance of missionaries, totaled $28,000. These few figures may give some impression of the self-sustaining character of the work which your missionaries have been building up in India. There can still be found those who are fearful as to "how much of my money gets to the Field?" There is probably no other enterprise where gifts are so amazingly magnified by the resources which they release in these distant lands.

ELIZABETH R. VOORHEES COLLEGE

Voorhees College reports an enrollment of 222 pupils in the college classes and 1170 in the high school. A rather extensive program of improvement of the property is being carried out with funds raised in the Centenary Campaign some years ago. The Lower School building has been thoroughly renovated and two new classrooms added for the high school. A sick room and necessary sanitary construction have also been provided for the Christian Dormitory, or Hostel, as it is called in India.

After the death of Dr. John J. De Boer, Mr. V. P. Adiseshiah, long Vice-Principal, was elected as Principal. For his splendid service in the cause of education Mr. Adiseshiah has recently received recognition from the government in having the honorary title of "Rao Saheb" conferred upon him.

MEDICAL WORK

Two large hospitals are maintained, one for women at Madanapalle, the Mary Lott Lyles Hospital, and one general hospital, the Scudder Memorial, at Ranipet. Nursing schools are attached to both institutions. A highly effective medical service for the villages is also carried on in the southern area by Dr. Margaret Rottschaefer, to which further reference will be made in the following chapter. The Union Missionary Medical College for Women is also located at Vellore and with its splendid hospital, The Mary Taber Schell, is an integral part of the medical service of the Mission.

SCUDDER MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Dr. Galen Scudder reports a steady growth in practically all phases of the work. 198 more in-patients were treated, an increase of 12%, and 2,211 more out-patients, a 10% increase. This will give some idea of the large ministry of this institution, which is maintained entirely from receipts on the field and the income on endowment funds specifically designated for the hospital.

The following story told by Dr. Galen Scudder throws some light upon conditions encountered in India. "A quack bone-setter lives about thirty miles from the hospital. He enjoys a strong popularity with the people of the district, though he is not medically trained and possesses only some crude knowledge of the application of splints to broken limbs. One little boy with a compound fracture of the arm was taken to him. After a few days the arm became terribly swollen and septic and the quack told the father to take the boy to a hospital and get the wound healed, after which he could be brought back and have the bone set. Fortunately for the little fellow he was brought to us and after two operations and a hard struggle for about two months, we managed not only to save the arm but to restore it to practically its normal function. Such a case is a gratifying demonstration of the advantage of modern treatment, with the use of X-ray to help us in achieving good results."

The Radium Institute has treated eighty cases of cancer this year and the Leper Clinic has been very active, frequently more than 125 patients being present at a single clinic.

The Nurses Training School attached to the hospital gives a most interesting account of the service of those who have been trained there. The following record of a recently graduated class of ten reveals the wide extent of this service. Two of the girls and one of the boys have remained to assist the staff of the hospital. Several are in government institutions in Mysore and Miraj. Two have gone to Arabia to join those other graduates of our own hospitals who have answered the call to foreign missionary service in our hospitals on the Persian Gulf. Another is teaching in a mission hospital in India and still another serves in a village dispensary.

So through all these avenues of service the light of Christian love is shining forth, influencing all whom it touches and kindling the spirit of service in the hearts of those who are trained there.

UNION INSTITUTIONS

It is impossible to give an adequate picture of the work in India without including at least some reference to the numerous institutions maintained in cooperation with others. Prominent among these is the Arcot Theological Seminary at Vellore. Special note is made this year in its report of the contribution made by other institutions. The Medical College furnishes doctors to teach First Aid and Hygiene. The Agricultural Institute renders also assistance in special training and such service is peculiarly valuable for the students who are to occupy posts later in the villages. On the other hand the students of the Seminary take part actively in the program of the Vellore Church in surrounding villages and conduct regular Sunday services in three such village centers.

Higher theological training is provided by the United Theological College in Bangalore. About one-half of our higher trained pastors and evangelistic workers are graduates of this institution. A similar institution for Telugu students is maintained at Gooty. One of the staff, Rev. Jayaraj Souri, visited America for special study last year.

Madras Christian College for boys and the Women's Christian College of Madras crown the educational work of the Mission and special teachers' training is provided at St. Christopher's Training College, Madras, for the women, while the Union Teachers' Training School, near Vellore, in charge of Mr. C. J. Lucas, prepares elementary teachers for the villages.

The Union Mission Tuberculosis Sanatorium celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary this year. This is another of the great union institutions founded by one of our own missionaries, Dr. Louisa H. Hart, now retired, having begun this great work in Madanapalle.

The Missionary Medical College for Women, located at Vellore, faces a critical situation. For twenty-two years it has been sending out its graduates with the degree of Licensed Medical Practitioner. Now the government requires that all doctors shall have the higher degree of Bachelor of Medicine and demands that the institution be raised to full college status and affiliated with the University of Madras. The necessary increased staff and equipment require substantially increased financial resources and the Principal, Dr. Ida Scudder, is bending every effort to meet these new demands of the times.

JAPAN

The general situation was discussed at some length in the second chapter of this report and only brief reference will be made here to particular pieces of work. The story of the year was of fairly normal activity during the earlier months, with catastrophic changes after the summer which have completely changed the picture.

It should be clearly understood that our institutions are continuing their regular service. Nor should we forget that even where missionaries are completely withdrawn, the churches continue and our prayers for Japanese pastors, now carrying on without the support of the missionary or of foreign funds, are needed more than ever. The majority of the churches were already self-supporting. Their status is unchanged, but it is a hard experience for some of the little mission churches with tiny congregations and hopelessly inadequate resources. Some conception of the situation may be secured if we picture what would be the result if all aid by our Domestic Board to newer enterprises in our own country were suspended over night.

STURGES SEMINARY

Reference was made in Chapter 1 to the 70th anniversary of Ferris Seminary. Sturges Seminary, our other Girls' School, which is carried on in cooperation with the Presbyterian Church, also held an impressive ceremony as it celebrated the 25th year of its service. The Board of Directors is busy with preparations for carrying on the institution independently and a new three-room classroom building is in process of erection, most of the needed funds being contributed on the field, but with a welcome contribution of 5,000 yen from the Woman's Board. The Chairman of the Board is a retired banker, free to devote his splendid energies to Christian service, and there are representatives of the Church of Christ in Japan, the Alumnae Association and local supporters also on the Board. We look forward confidently to the faithful continuance of the record of fine Christian service of this institution.

FERRIS SEMINARY

Special note should be made of the death last summer of Miss Sada Hayashi, Vice-Principal of Ferris Seminary. Her service to the school and its graduates for a continuous period of forty-six years was an incomparable blessing. On the occasion of the celebration of the 70th anniversary of the school on October 24th, Dr. Shafer, a former Principal, was present to represent the home Boards. Dr. Stegeman has retired as Principal and in the person of the Rev. Senji Tsuru, long associated with Meiji Gakuin, a Principal has been found well qualified to carry on and the transition to the new regime has progressed smoothly. Dr. and Mrs. Stegeman continued to maintain friendly relations with the alumnae, attending rallies from time to time and once a week holding open house for graduates. Mrs. Stegeman returned to America in March and Dr. Stegeman remains in Yokohama.

MEIJI GAKUIN

Meiji Gakuin has carried on quietly under the presidency of Mr. T. Yano. Dr. Hoekje continued to serve as Treasurer throughout the year. Many courses and departments have had their maximum enrollment in the history of the school. Even so, the policy of achieving self-support from April, 1941, includes plans for generous increase of enrollment in the coming years, accompanied by increase of fees. The urgency of securing additional classroom space requires a prompt completion of the program of reconstruction of the plant. By the close of the year 78,000 yen had been contributed in cash on the field for the building program. The trustees are strong groups of Alumni and leaders of the Church, the President of the Board being the Moderator of the Synod. Members of the Presbyterian Mission serve with members of our own, both as trustees and teachers. The religious program continues with little change.

Of our missionaries still in Japan, Mr. Ter Borg and Miss Flora Darrow are teaching in Meiji Gakuin. Dr. Stegeman's service at Ferris Seminary has already been noted. Mr. Moore has been teaching a class of American-born Japanese girls in Miss Michi Kawai's well-known school in Tokyo and he has been taking courses of study in the field of Japanese history and thought at the Imperial University. Miss Couch, though retired from active service, continues her quiet personal ministry in the land of her adoption. We share with our readers the closing words of the report of Miss Couch, longest in service of all our missionaries in Japan. It is her message to us in the home Church.

"We thank you for your prayers and remind you that by them you can do your greatest work for the Church in this land. As we enter the new year we look up to our unfailing Guide, remembering His promise, 'I the Lord will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not, I will help thee.'"

ARABIA

An early paragraph of the report of the Mission gives an interesting picture of the signs of the times in Arabia and Iraq:

"We are co-workers with God and while He, indeed, through His Spirit, does the work, He also uses or puts at our disposal world forces and world circumstances. Among such, in apostolic days, were the pax Romana and the Diocletian persecutions. Today we see God again taking divine strides toward His great purpose. Among these circumstances are the rapid speeding up of communications. The whole peninsula of Arabia is criss-crossed with motor tracks, the camel is being crowded out of his own desert, and Ford, Chevrolet, and Dodge cars and lorries carry pilgrims to Mecca in hours, where before it took days and weeks. Oil, too, has been discovered throughout our field. Within a generation the eyes of the Arabs will turn to the pressure gauge instead of to the Qibla, for it spells food and water, livelihood and security. The great air trunk lines from Europe to the middle and far east pass through our field and a missionary tour by airplane has become almost a commonplace. No village so small but has its complement of radios. The palace, the coffee-shop, the harem, all listen in to their favorite broadcasts and the Lease and Lend Bill, or the presidential campaign, Dunkirk, Thames Estuary, Chiang Kai-shek, Petain and Laval, are discussed by viziers and taxi-drivers, and even the marsh Arabs frighten their children with threats of Hitler. In Iraq, particularly, nationalism in an acute form fills men's thoughts. New streets, Olympic stadia, the tuxedo, swing music and the latest dances are regarded as the criteria of progress and modernism among the upper classes. Religion has been crowded out in the process and Allah is progressively becoming superfluous. With it all the great mass of people, illiterate, hungry and bewildered, look wistfully for certainty and security in temporal and spiritual things. To them, as did our Lord, we bend our main effort in hospital, in school, in preaching, in friendly personal contact."

EVANGELISM OF THE WORD

The main feature at Basrah has been the meetings of young men. The objective is worship, discussion, and fellowship. The common motive is understood to be the recognition of Christ's claims on a man's soul. Always one is bolder, keener, more spiritually minded than the rest. Each may pray in his own way and speak of what is uppermost in his mind and heart, but gradually the level rises and the spirit of Christ gains the ascendancy. Thus no one stands alone and isolation, the greatest obstacle to an inquirer, is avoided.

The Bible Shop, as a center for the distribution of literature and as a meeting place for personal discussions, has continued to play an important role in the work of the Mission. Amarah and Basrah, in particular, report an encouraging increase in Scripture sales.

Bahrain sends an interesting report of the progress of some of the new converts. Mirza, a blind young man who was baptized at the annual meeting in June, has since witnessed boldly despite cruel persecution. He was greatly comforted by a visit from Abud, the blind young convert who is being educated at the blind school at Jerusalem. A former schoolgirl, impressed by the change in them, asked for baptism.

Muscat has enlarged the chapel during the year because the congregation of converts, inquirers and adherents, with their children, had outgrown the building. The enlarged chapel will be known as the Peter Zwemer Memorial. One woman was baptized in May. Bible classes for adults and Sunday School classes for all were well attended, Sunday morning classes containing thirty-five members and afternoon classes the same number. A group of twenty-five also met regularly during the week. One outstanding tour was made with Dr. Thoms into the mountainous region of Jebel Akhdhar, several hundred miles being covered and some towns long closed to us being revisited.

Mr. Hakken, now connected with the United Mission in Mesopotamia, sends the following interesting comments upon the work in Baghdad:

"Answered prayer has been the comfort of Christians everywhere. We have been greatly encouraged this year to have one of our prayers answered. In my first report from this station, I mentioned that it was our prayer that the red light district, which has been a tremendous drawback to the work, indeed to normal living, should be removed. This year the government took the matter in hand and I am happy to report that they have made a thorough job of it and at the time of writing the empty houses are slowly filling up with respectable people. This will mean a great advance as far as our work here is concerned, for many times young men have told me that they would be glad to come to the Evangelistic Center, but could not for fear of their reputations. While the work of ousting these people was in progress I had no visitors, for no one was allowed through the streets. However, under the circumstances we could afford to be patient and our patience has been rewarded for now the services and prayer meetings are better attended than for the past year. I cannot write how grateful I am to the Government for what they have done."

"Referring to my last report, I mentioned the imprisonment of one of our converts and how he was still carrying on Christian work among the prisoners. The false report came to us that he had died in prison, but just a few days ago a friend who had visited him in prison in Mosul told me that he was well and that he was still doing Christian work there, conducting services every Sunday for the few Christians in prison. We thank God for this good confession."

BASRAH BOYS' SCHOOL

Following the example of Turkey and Iran, Iraq aims to unify and standardize its educational system after strict nationalistic models. A new law was drafted and passed, forbidding all primary school pupils to attend foreign or private schools. Restrictions were also placed on the teaching of certain subjects in secondary schools except by teachers directly appointed by the department. The United States Government has made a formal protest against this violation of treaties and commitments, but a working agreement has been arrived at by which our boys' and girls' primary schools continue to function as before, though now registered in the name of the Protestant Arabic Congregation, which has a legal status before the government. Full assurances were given by the Iraq Government that the discriminations were not aimed at the American schools and that in method, personnel and objective we may carry on as before. The Iraq authorities have thus far faithfully adhered to this undertaking and the mutual relationships have been friendly and even cordial. The enrollment of the Boys' School is the highest in its history in all departments, with a far larger proportion of Moslems, ninety-two per cent, than ever before. Many pupils were turned away for lack of room.

Mr. Gosselink gives all the Bible instruction in the primary school, in itself an opportunity almost unequalled for effective service. The club building, formerly the nurses' bungalow, equipped and furnished for games and sociability and supplied with an excellent radio,—the gift of a pupil,—is a center of friendliness for pupils and outsiders by day and far into the night. Our athletic teams compared favorably with those of other schools and the activities of the Arabic literary society surpassed those elsewhere. Voluntary Sunday services were gratifyingly attended.

THE MINISTRY OF HEALING

Six hospitals are maintained by the Mission and the influence of these institutions, both within their walls and through the long tours into the interior, has played a large part in creating new attitudes toward our work and the workers up and down the shores of the Persian Gulf. Special attention is directed in this chapter to the general hospitals as the following chapter will cover the work of the two women's hospitals at Bahrain and Kuwait.

The leper camp at Amarah, founded by Dr. Moerdyk, has been removed to a new site and taken over by the government. The general work of the hospital itself continues unabated, a total of over 35,000 treatments being recorded for the year.

Dr. Scudder shared the year with Dr. Mylrea at Kuwait, as Dr. Mylrea was compelled to be absent for five months in India owing to the illness of Mrs. Mylrea. We rejoice to report their return late in the year in recovered health. Over 40,000 treatments are recorded and in spite of the erection of a government hospital the Mission institution is overcrowded.

The Mason Memorial Hospital at Bahrain also reports a busy year, so busy that invitations to visit the interior had to be declined. A training class for hospital workers was conducted, four Arabs and one Persian attending. Daily classes were held in which government teachers instructed them in English, Arabic and mathematics while the hospital staff gave them practice as dressers. Plans are being made to start a class in X-ray and laboratory work also. A new operating room has been constructed and the Cantine Tubercular ward was opened, consisting of two large rooms and verandah. This was made possible through a gift from the Overisel Church which supported Dr. Cantine as a missionary and from Mr. Rosenthal, a Jewish pearl merchant.

Dr. Thoms' report of the Knox Memorial Hospital at Matrah contains many items of interest. In the course of the tour to Jebel Akhdhar, referred to in Mr. Dykstra's report of evangelistic work, the party arrived at Nakhil. A friendly crowd surrounded them imploring medical aid. At this juncture came word from the churlish sheikh that the missionaries' presence was not desired as there were no sick at Nakhil and he feared mob violence against them! Hundreds of treatments were administered and later in the year a pressing invitation was received from the people of the town urging a longer visit.

Notable addition was made to the equipment of this hospital also through the gift of an X-ray machine by an individual donor who had been deeply moved by reading of "The Desert Doctor" in the Readers' Digest. An electric generator was also added by the gift of Hope College faculty and students. So this hospital, which itself was the gift of another anonymous individual seven years ago, is prepared for more effective service in ways which assure us further of the good hand of our God upon us.

The author of the report of the Arabian Mission concludes the record of the year with this message to the home church. "We all of us thank the Church at home for her loyal support of us and her faith in us through the years. The world may say, 'To what purpose is this waste?' We are satisfied if the Master says, 'They have done a good work unto Me.'"

Chapter Six

Intimate Glimpses of Women's Work

"And a certain woman....one that worshipped God, heard us, whose heart the Lord opened."

IT is impossible to make clear distinction between work for men and work for women. It is one work, with unified administration at the home end and undivided responsibility abroad. In the reports of the preceding chapter we have therefore again and again referred to projects the support of which is provided by the Woman's Board, which is responsible for about one-third of the total budget. This chapter will direct specific attention to other work for women, because there is a natural keen interest on the part of the women of the Church in projects which are their peculiar responsibility, and in the intelligent and at the same time warm, intimate interest of the women of the Church we have one of the vital factors influencing the whole enterprise. So far as is possible these reports selected from the wide range of work supported by the women, will be in the words of our own missionaries, known and loved by the women of the Church.

CHINA

Miss Katharine Green gives us a glimpse of the refugee work which has been one of the great problems since the occupation of Amoy by the Japanese:-

"In most kinds of work progress means expansion but in work for the war refugees the reverse is true. Using this standard, there has been great progress at the refugee camp on Kulangsu. The camp started the year 1940 with 29 huts in which were housed about 5,500 persons but we ended the year with only two matsheds with 260 inmates.

"During the first half of the year Mr. Poppen, chairman of the Relief Committee, made a strong effort to induce those who should fend for themselves to leave the camp. With this object in view bonuses were given and large numbers departed. The final exodus occurred during September and no cooked rice was distributed after the middle of the month. Those who still remain at the camp are those who really have no place to go. About eighty of them who might otherwise starve are given a small daily dole."

We have read in the preceding chapter of the faithful work being done by the churches in times of war. The following story of a simple Bible woman, Chhoa-ti-che by name, associated with the churches in the Tong-an District, reveals how much of the fine record is due to the service of the women of the Church:-

"All the churches have made advance in contributions . . . The noted advance in giving was particularly shown at Christmas when in response to Chhoa-ti-che's suggestion, most of the churches had a White Gift service. Chhoa-ti-che is the hospital Bible woman who has been an invalid all year because of leprosy. We thank God for her work of prayer and her continued witness of God's grace in her suffering. The money from those services was used for the poor of the church except in two churches, where they sent part to the Jews. Tong-an collected $162.00 (Chinese currency) besides 100 pounds of potatoes, over 100 pounds of papaya and other vegetables. This was the largest amount of any except that Au-khoe's offering in rice amounted to about $250.00. This spirit of giving, even though little, is most encouraging."

An important part of the work is the training of women for such service. The following report from Miss Leona Van der Linden of the Amoy Women's Bible School shows something of the nature of this work:

"The enrollment for the year has been the same as before, sixty each term, which is all that we can accommodate at present. All told there were nearly ninety different women who received instruction in the Bible School during the year. There is a great demand from church leaders for more young Bible women like those who have recently graduated. Most gratifying reports come regarding the fine work they are doing. They walk long distances, often over rough mountain roads, to reach the villages and chapels where they conduct meetings and reading classes, at times short term schools. The regular visitation in the homes means preaching to all classes of people as well as calling on the sick, comforting the sad and distressed, teaching, admonishing and encouraging new hearers. On Sundays they usually have to conduct at least one of the church services, besides doing Sunday School work and teaching individuals between services."

THE SCHOOLS

AMOY GIRLS' MIDDLE SCHOOL

Reference was made in the first chapter to some of the special relief work being carried on by the Amoy Girls' Middle School under the direction of Miss Tena Holkeboer. She gives a graphic picture of that work and comments upon the doubling of the enrollment since the outbreak of war, 425 students now being in attendance. The following description of the dedication service held in connection with the Christmas service carries us to the very heart of the program of the School:

"After presenting the coming of the Savior in drama and song to a large audience of parents and alumnae, comes the annual dedication of material gifts, service, and life to the Master. This year our offering to the poor reached the unprecedented sum of $2,495. With this were bought gifts of cloth, towels, soap, toothbrushes, etc., to be given to more than 600 poor the following day, as well as to the Slave Refuge and the Refugee Sunday School. All these gifts were brought to the platform while the glee club sang an appropriate hymn. Following these came the service group bearing lighted candles, more than seventy girls who are busy every Sunday on this island conducting six Sunday Schools. With each girl bearing in her right hand a large poinsettia came the group of those who have during 1940 accepted Christ as their Savior, and there were exactly one hundred of them! And finally came our nineteen volunteers for Bible women's work, the leader holding high a large lighted cross. A deep hush fell over the audience as Mr. Koeppe arose to give the prayer of dedication and many a heart was stirred to renewed consecration to God. May the reading of this report of the 'wonderful works which He has done' move the reader to do likewise!"

IOK-TEK PRIMARY SCHOOL

Associated with this school is the Iok-tek Primary School which celebrated its seventieth birthday this year. "What changes the passing years have seen," writes Miss Beekman. "From that small beginning of seventy years ago, when, in the face of opposition and indifference, the first school for girls in South Fukien was established in faith, the school has steadily grown and this year saw 535 girls crowded into its classrooms. Trunk racks, bed boards and dining room tables from the dormitory were made over into desks and benches so that we could take in as many as possible. Even so, many had to be turned away. How we wished that our new building could have been erected before the present unsettled conditions made delay necessary."

CHANGCHOW GIRLS' SCHOOL

Miss Elizabeth Bruce reports on the Girls' School at Changchow, known as the "Iong-cheng" School.

"The Girls' School was started in 1895. This year the enrollment topped 365 pupils, the largest enrollment in the history of the school. Since Talmage and the London Mission Middle Schools have left the city, much has been demanded by the churches of the primary schools. They have done their best in contributing special music and programs at all the festivals. On Christmas morning the girls went with the church group around the city caroling. At Easter and Christmas the school helped with the programs. On Christmas afternoon the girls went to our Union hospital and gave oranges to all the patients and nurses. During the year they raised a considerable sum for relief work. Chapel, Bible study, Sunday School and church attendance continue as usual. There is a fine spirit in the school. Shoes are hard to buy, school uniforms look a bit shabby but there is nothing wrong with the Iong-cheng smile."

This by no means covers all the work being carried on through the Girls' Schools but it is enough to convey the deep impression of the indomitable spirit in which this work is being carried on in the midst of war and violence.

MEDICAL WORK

No separate hospitals for women are maintained in the Amoy Mission. The freer association of men and women in China makes it practicable to extend this service through the general hospital. Missionary nurses are assigned to the various hospitals, therefore, and in the two large central hospitals at Amoy and Changchow nursing departments are maintained, where fine young Christian nurses are in training. The Nursing School attached to the Hope and Wilhelmina Hospital organized an Alumnae Association this year. The school was registered with the Nurses' Association of China in 1925 and has continued to maintain high standards and since recognition has also complied with government standards.

The following excerpt from the report of the Nurses' School at Changchow gives a clear picture of the effective Christian service of such an institution:

"The nurses have been taking a more active part in the religious work at the Hospital among the patients. In July this year, several of the Doctors and Nurses felt the need of entering in more definitely and not leaving this part of the work largely to the Hospital preacher. Very soon the entire staff, including the servants, joined the 'Christianize the Hospital Group', as the name might be translated. The motto or pledge is from Matt. 11:29. Special emphasis has been placed upon a personal Quiet Time each day and personal witness to at least one patient every day. The formal meeting is held Friday nights. The group is divided into six bands which after this meeting go to the Wards to hold a short Prayer Meeting and all during the week especially concentrate on the patients in that Ward."

INDIA

The program in India is one of infinite variety. Every possible approach is tried that "we may by all means save some." There is direct evangelism through the work of the Bible women. Contacts are sought also through social centers. In a lovely home like that maintained by Mrs. Honegger at Vellore, visitors are welcomed and invited to discuss their spiritual problems and join in the prayer-life which centers in a beautiful prayer-hall. There are Boarding Schools and Day Schools, some particularly for Hindus, others designed to build up Christian leadership among the women. A fine school for training in the domestic arts is also maintained and the love and sympathy of Christ's followers are exemplified in hospitals and medical work in the villages.

THE SCHOOLS

Again we can cite but a few examples. To illustrate the life and spirit of this wonderful service let us begin with this glimpse of the work of a Hindu Girl's School at Ranipet under the supervision of Mrs. Van Vranken:

"As we work to teach these Hindu girls the value of education, I often wonder if it is worth all the hours of work for seventy girls. When I was wondering about this, I went with a Bible woman into one of the Hindu homes. A young wife presented me with a garland and a lime and said, 'I have only finished fifth class in your school. My parents insisted on my marriage, but now you are coming here to teach me and I am going to bring up my family to go to school. My husband is a merchant and we can afford to have our children educated.' As I looked at her two little ones playing house, with their small clay and wooden pots, pretending to cook food over a small mud fireplace built in one corner,—a true model of their own mud fireplaces,—I said, 'What a happy normal scene,' and I felt how true the saying is, 'Educate a woman and you educate the whole family.' The mother no doubt had learned how to play while at our school for we have a little mud house with pots and household things with which our little children play. One of the daughters is now five years old and ready to start her school days. We shall be happy to welcome her."

Mrs. De Bruin gives the following story of a visit to one of the pupils being taught by another Bible woman in the home:

"We shall probably never know how many of these pupils have become secret but true believers in Christ. Only now and then is there courage to testify. A few days ago we visited a Hindu home on a day of special significance. It was the day for performing 'Puja' (Worship) to Sarasvathi, goddess of learning. In this home a daughter who bears the name of Sarasvathi was repeating the Ten Commandments for us and then we discussed them with her. Oh, yes, she had performed the customary 'Puja' that morning, because it was expected of her, but it was only a meaningless ceremony to her. In her own words, 'How could that image, made of wood, pay any attention to that worship? How could it possibly be of any help to me? God does not need to be worshipped through an image.' How many more like her have had a glimpse of the Truth, we cannot tell, but each little evidence of faith is encouraging."

WOMEN'S INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL, PALMANER

Reference has been made to this institution in Chapter V. It performs a great service in the training of mothers for village homes, women who can teach others useful home crafts which will supplement the scanty incomes, who will assume a place of leadership, often as the wife of a village catechist. When one enters one of our Christian villages it is often possible from the general appearance of the village to know whether one of these graduates lives there. "During the past year," writes Miss Te Winkel, "nine of these young women (in the school) have united with the Church on confession of faith after some weeks of preparation by the local evangelist. When they appeared at the Session for examination they were presented with papers and asked to write briefly their reasons for wishing to unite with the Church. This was without previous intimation, but the papers submitted indicated that the girls seemed to have a very good idea of the meaning of church membership.

"All through the year the school has attracted many interested visitors, both official and otherwise, who have expressed themselves as much impressed with the activities of the school, so much in line with the Wardha Scheme, now so popular."

RANIPET GIRLS' SCHOOL

We take you without introduction into one of the busy periods of this elementary school. "As I write", reports Miss Wells, "the first and second classes are learning to read and write Tamil, the third class are learning English by the direct method, the fourth class are making pillow cases, their first large piece of sewing; the fifth class are enjoying the new library books, the sixth class are learning to mend and darn properly, the seventh class are preparing vegetable curry with the radishes from their own garden, and the eighth have just finished a Bible test in which I asked them to do some thinking about how we can bring God's Kingdom of love into our war-torn world. This is just one of the seven forty-minute periods each day."

SHERMAN MEMORIAL, CHITTOOR

Here nearly two hundred girls, most of them of Christian families, receive a full High School education. Many go on to College in the Women's Christian College of Madras. We depend upon this institution for the provision of higher trained leaders among Christian women. The students live in cottages scattered over an attractive campus, a devoted Christian teacher assigned to each cottage. The atmosphere thus secured leaves an indelible impression upon these young women, both Christian and Hindu.

In cooperation with the Church and through the chapel services and Scripture classes the Lenten season was appropriately observed.

At an impressive Communion Service on Holy Thursday evening, nine Sherman girls acknowledged their allegiance to Jesus Christ and were received into membership in His Church.

The school rejoices in the return to its staff of Miss A. B. Van Doren, who for the past twelve years has served most effectively as a Secretary of the National Christian Council, visiting many parts of India and making a real contribution to the cause of Christian education in India.

GIRLS' SCHOOL, MADANAPALLE

The report of this school comes from the pen of Miss Chandra Royal, graduate of our own institutions, who has taken over the position of headmistress and is carrying on this important institution in the absence of Miss Clara Coburn. She gives us an interesting picture of a curriculum which goes far beyond the usual confines of a secondary school.

"During this term we celebrated the Education week in our school. We had an exhibition, the expression work of each class, in each class room. One class proudly exhibited a large tray of tempting red tomatoes which were raised in the class garden. The second class had a beautiful model house, built by the pupils themselves with the assistance of the teacher. A large gathering of parents and friends visited the school. After this, we had a meeting in the assembly hall, when the Headmistress addressed the audience on the 'Aims of the School.'"

MEDICAL WORK

MARY LOTT LYLES HOSPITAL

A fine record of service is indicated in the report of over 30,000 treatments during the past year. A few quotations from the annual report will convey some impression of this busy institution.

"What a variety of patients have come to us. Some out of great need—Rajama and Chinnama—have come to us in a very critical condition and after weeks of patient care and treatment they have recovered. Oftentimes maternity cases, having tried all methods, come from the villages needing immediate attention. Some have learned to appreciate the care received in the hospital. Kanthamma, a merchant class woman who was very ill, has expressed her gratitude many times. She has left her baby with us in the hospital until it is well and strong. Many babies with little bodies thin and worn are brought by helpless fathers and mothers. They have tried to care for them but have not been able to afford the necessary nourishing food.

"Each week our hospital car with supplies and medicines stops at a group of villages. Some walk from other villages to the clinic under the trees. Daily classes are held for the nurses in the Nurses' Training School and we are proud to count amongst our number those nurses who have graduated and are holding responsible positions in other hospitals. We have had several requests from the Government to recommend our nurses for village work but we have hesitated as the loneliness and lack of companionship bring many dangers.

"A prayer circle is held early in the morning in the hospital courtyard, prayers in the evening in the wards and a special service on Sunday afternoon. We would witness to the love of our Master in deed and word."

VILLAGE MEDICAL WORK, WANDIWASH

Dr. Margaret Rottschaefer conducts a Dispensary at Wandiwash, but this is only a center from which radiates a ministry of service to villages in a wide area of the southern district. It is an area where the ravages of that dread disease, leprosy, are particularly violent. There is special interest, therefore, in Dr. Rottschaefer's reference to that work.

"In our roadside work we have had 1,143 lepers on our rolls of which number 251 are children. Besides, there have been 259 whose names appear only on a temporary register. Our patients are not placed on the permanent register until they have come three weeks in succession. During the year or part of the year that we have been at work 13,072 treatments have been given. This figure does not include many intradermal injections that have been given, nor the injections into the base of ulcers, nor other treatments that have been given to the patients."

Again the reader is referred to the preceding chapter for other references to work among the women in India, particularly to the interesting program of the Nurses' Training School at Ranipet and the work of the Missionary Medical College for Women at Vellore, under the Principalship of Dr. Ida Scudder. The ministry of healing has been one of the most effective means in India for approaching women of high caste. Many of the homes now open to us have been first touched by the service of the doctor in time of need.

JAPAN

A report of the two outstanding institutions, Ferris Seminary and Sturges Seminary, is given in Chapter V. So much is written of the general situation in Japan in other pages of this report that it is possible here to make only brief reference to some of the bits of individual work as they reflect the continuing activity of our Japanese Christian friends.

Miss Bogard tells of interesting work with the choir of the Japanese Church at Yokohama:

"The climax of the effort came at Christmas time when we centered our attention on a musical program for the church service. Many hours of laborious effort went into the project but the singers enjoyed it so much that it was a great joy to work with them. They were well pleased too when they learned how much the audience had enjoyed the fruits of their efforts."

Mrs. Kuyper writes of Sunday School classes and a cooking class maintained at Oita throughout the year, though with diminishing numbers as the work grew particularly difficult in that part of Japan. The spirit of her comment is that which is in the heart of others who have had to leave their homes in Japan for a time: "Now with our return to the homeland they promised to continue to meet together at their homes, and my helper, as long as she and her husband are in Oita, will continue the little religious service each time. They are such fine young women and such fine friends of each other and of us that it makes one's heart ache to leave till they are all out and out followers of the Master, but the seed has been sown and in due time we know it will come to fruitage."

Miss Noordhoff gives us the assurance of work accomplished even in the midst of the uncertainties of the times:

"The year 1940 will always be recalled as a year of changes and difficulties but I am so grateful to God that He has permitted us to carry on and that for the most part the work went on with very little change. The numbers fell off somewhat and yet when we come to count up our averages we learn that in our four children's meetings and two clubs we have met about 135 - 150 children every week and they have been faithfully instructed in God's truth. One sees very little actual result but there is an increase in interest, behaviour is better and there is greater eagerness to attend.

In the closing words of her report she points clearly to a service which it is particularly important that we maintain at this time:

"If ever there was a time when men should pray, it is now. For the Church, that she may remain steadfast; for the pastors, that they may give the true message unafraid; for those who hear that their hearts may be open to hear and retain; for the missionaries, that they may be able to discern and grasp every opportunity while there is time. Pray ye therefore."

ARABIA

THE SCHOOLS

As these words are written we are anxious concerning our missionaries in Iraq, where still another undeclared war has suddenly sprung up. Against such a background the report of Mrs. Thoms on the Girls' School in Baghdad is of special interest.

BAGHDAD GIRLS' SCHOOL

"We live in an age not very different from the early apostolic days when opposition and hindrances needed to be met with faith and courage and great patience. As I've scolded and fumed about hindrances and delays, I've sometimes felt that we might be justified in shaking off the dust of one locality and going on to another. And yet the girls for whom we work do not come in the category of those who 'receive you not.' They are as responsive and interested as we have always found them to be. Often we marvel at the rapidity with which prejudice drops away and what amounts almost to fear changes to interest, and then to a sharing in the search for truth which is life and freedom.

"Yesterday the latest member to join our staff, a graduate of the American University of Beirut, re-affirmed what I have come to expect, when I asked what her impression of our students was. Her face lit up as she talked enthusiastically of them, of their interest in and understanding of the highest and best we have to give them. And so it is that when we think of the reason for our being here, of the things that matter most, we have deep satisfaction and much reason to be encouraged."

BASRAH GIRLS' SCHOOL

Work has continued steadily at Basrah. The Girls' School there has been radically altered in character in recent years in order to reach classes other than those attracted to the government schools.

It means a smaller institution but a unique service. A paragraph from Miss Kellien's report gives a bird's-eye view of the school:

"Our attendance, though small—the average for the year being 43,—is entirely Moslem, and our contact with the girls is close. With a curriculum simple enough to meet their needs, we have time for attention to their 'manners and morals'; while the daily Bible lesson opens the door, at least, to a more excellent way. We have few pupils beyond the age of thirteen, so their minds are not mature, but God can reveal Himself even to childish hearts in the Christ who bade us all become as little children."

BAHRAIN GIRLS' SCHOOL

A very popular girls' school is that maintained at Bahrain. Started in 1922 by Mrs. Louis P. Dame, it now has an enrollment of about eighty. During the past year it has been under the supervision of Miss Rachel Jackson. The following quotations from her report indicate the importance of this avenue of service:

"A second year in Bahrain was a joy to me and gave me a chance to cement friendships with the teen age group which will be lasting ones though I have since left the school and station. The contact with the club girls varying in age from the youngest school girl members of fifteen years to former pupils or graduates who are in their twenties is one of the finest contacts I have had in Arabia.

"Friday Chapel is one of the nicest events of the school week. It comes as a fitting climax to their week of work to have a period of worship. It somehow brings out more clearly the Bible lessons they have been studying. There is singing by all, then memorized Scripture by one group, special singing by another, a prayer by the head teacher, and a short talk by the principal. The very little tots do not attend and look forward to the day when they will be big enough to march up to the chapel too."

MEDICAL SERVICE

Medical work has been of peculiar value in Arabia, creating friendliness where hostility prevailed, and constantly opening up new territory in the interior. At Kuwait a fine new hospital for women, the Olcott Memorial, is maintained, and at Bahrain is another memorial, The Marian Wells Thoms Hospital. Miss Cornelia Dalenberg, now attached as a nurse to the Lansing Memorial Hospital at Amarah, also carries on a highly effective work for women and covers a considerable territory in her visits to surrounding villages.

KATE V. S. OLCOTT MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

An outstanding event of the year at Kuwait was the visit of the Amir Saud, crown prince of the Saudi Kingdom. He was vastly interested in the Kate V. S. Olcott Memorial Hospital, unique of its kind in all of the peninsula, and undoubtedly carried back impressions which cannot but enhance our message. Dr. Allison went to India on a short leave and her place was taken by Dr. Crouse who had passed her first Arabic examination with great credit two months ahead of schedule. The total of treatments was 30,042, of out-calls 224, and in-patients numbered 251, besides 53 maternity cases, a striking contrast to the old days when a woman would under no circumstances remain under a hospital roof, if indeed she came to the hospital at all.

MARIAN WELLS THOMS MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

"Dr. Barny spent four months in Riyadh, capital of Saudi Arabia, and six months in the United States. On her departure for America Miss Dalenberg carried on her work in the Marian Wells Thoms Memorial Hospital. The presence of a woman missionary doctor in the Saudi capital for so long a period was unique in our annals. She was the guest of the king, and beside the royal harem, she treated hundreds of women in the city itself. Miss Dalenberg undertook two extensive tours, one to Hassa, where besides numerous treatments, she renewed old friendships of former days and made many new friendships. The second tour was to the peninsula of Qatar. The arrangements for transport and entertainment were made by Petroleum Concessions, Ltd. Accompanied by a man and a woman helper, she remained a matter of weeks at Doha, the residence of the paramount sheikh, and treated more than 800 women, until, indeed, her medical supplies were exhausted. All clinics were opened with prayer and a Gospel talk. Gospel pictures were a great attraction. It is eloquent of missionary effectiveness that a woman missionary can travel so far and so alone."

EVANGELISTIC WORK

The reports concerning direct evangelistic work reveal interestingly how the contacts afforded naturally in hospital, in school and in the home are used as opportunities to share with Moslem women the Gospel of Christ, which, wherever it is preached, has brought new, fuller life to women.

Mrs. Pennings emphasizes the importance of such work in the Women's Hospital in Kuwait.

"As in other years, we spent three mornings a week there. First we meet the crowd in the large waiting room and give them the 'good news', seeking to help and lift and win them. Afterwards we visit the nine wards with their in-patients and groups of friends. As before, once a week, we Christian women in turn lead an informal evangelistic meeting for women in the town. We also have a social hour and coffee, and most of the meetings are well attended by a number of regular friends of that neighborhood. There are always some strangers that we would not reach any other way and also old friends from different parts of the town, who like to meet us, and some who secretly love the message."

Mrs. Moerdyk writes of Ajila, a converted leper woman, since cured, who has gone back to her tribe in the marshes and continues to witness boldly for her faith. Hospital prayers have been conducted at Amarah by three Sabeen women converts, and a Jewish woman helper has declared her intention to follow Christ.

At Basrah the most promising approach has been through the Girls' Clubs started in various quarters of the city. A total of two hundred girls from those of six to those in their teens constitute five such clubs, which care for sewing, games, singing and Bible instruction. A troop of Girl Guides was also started and proved very popular.

The largest Christian community is found at Bahrain, and it is of special interest to find reference to the work of two of the converts, of whom Mrs. De Jong writes: "Old Medina, now for twenty-five years a follower of Christ, knows the Bible thoroughly, and in her own inimitable way interprets it to her own kind The orphanage, now adequately housed and equipped, and containing ten orphans, is in truth a center of love and nurture. Um Miriam (another convert) veritably breathes the spirit of Christ and radiates His light. Her knowledge of the languages enables her to reach Persians and Swahilis as well as Arabs."

Mrs. Dykstra gives us an interesting picture of work at Muscat:

"Aside from the Bible class and Sunday School work, in which close cooperation was maintained with the men's work, special attention was paid to teaching women to read. Whereas, not so long ago, only one woman could read, at present nine women have read the Bible to their own and others' profit and of these four regularly take part in public prayer. One woman was baptized. From the Sunday School have gone into all walks of life those who have been thus profoundly influenced. Special attention was paid to visits in the homes, 327 such calls having been made. The Sunday evening fellowship supper for all those in our circle of faith did much to foster and sustain the spirit of unity. Tours were made to Birka, Musenna, Wadi Muawwal, Mezara, Hail el Ghaaf, Qurayat and other villages. On account of the departure of the woman doctor Mrs. Dykstra assisted at the clinics held by Dr. Thoms in Muscat."

Many of our readers may wish to receive a more complete report of this work, of which we have given a few tantalizing glimpses, a work carried on in a field where the position of women presents such appeal to our Christian sympathies. The full report of the Arabian Mission will be found in the April-June number of NEGLECTED ARABIA now on the press. Copies will be forwarded upon application to The Board of Foreign Missions.

Chapter Seven

The Church at Work---At Home

"And they continued steadfastly---"

A long and fascinating chapter might be written on the many activities of the Church at home in its loyal support under stress and strain of the missionary program abroad, but one short sentence will sum up the spirit and work of the year;—We have maintained. When General Synod in June, 1940, threw out the three-fold challenge "Maintain — Strengthen — Rescue", its members were looking ahead into a year of unusual responsibilities and claims upon every Christian individual and upon every church. That such a forecast was true has been clearly evidenced by the testimony of the preceding chapters. Not one mission field of our Church but has had to meet unprecedented emergencies. Hardly a week has gone by without its demand on Boards and Secretaries in the home office to make difficult decisions and to hurdle well-nigh insurmountable obstacles. But as the days have gone by, throughout the whole Church at home there has come a deepening realization of fellowship and partnership in the missionary task and an increasing sense of its importance in our day. "Now more than ever," we have said, we must keep alive the sense of Christian unity in our world. "Now more than ever" we must give a convincing demonstration of the power of sacrificial love.

This spirit has also been clearly demonstrated by the fine response of the churches to the call to rescue those who are the innocent victims of the tragedy of war. Through our denominational Committee on Relief over $45,000 has been raised and distributed in various areas of need. Nearly $11,000 of this amount has gone to China, where millions are utterly dependent on outside help. Nearly $18,000 has gone to missionaries in the Netherlands East Indies, cut off from sources of support in Holland. These tangible expressions of Christian sympathy at a time of desperate need will inevitably make more real the worldwide fellowship of the Church of Jesus Christ.

The story of the year at home is a story of sacrificial endeavor along many lines. Churches that have not before supported a missionary have come forward with the offer of full or part support. A glance into the finance pages will reveal such phrases as these, "special gift for missionary travel," "gift for food for China," "extra medical supplies — X-ray," "gift for orphans and rural work," "special gift for Braille project." A careful reading of Chapter VIII, The Meaning of the Figures, will reveal the financial picture of the year which is a gratifying one but which, set against the background of the preceding chapters indicating a sharp rise in costs of maintaining even the present program, presents a serious challenge for the new year.

It is of special interest to note that in this time of upheaval and difficulty in shipping more Sewing Guild consignments than ever before have been safely shipped and received at their various destinations. One hundred and ninety-eight churches and individuals have contributed garments, supplies and the needed money for shipping,—all this activity on the part of the women, going hand in hand with the supplying of hundreds of bundles for Holland and British relief. "Thank God for the Sewing Guild," writes Cornelia Dalenberg from her hospital post in Amarah. And she speaks for many missionaries into whose schools and hospitals have gone this year literally thousands of surgical dressings, garments and essential supplies. Forty-seven cases of supplies have been sent to Arabia, and twenty-one to India. Fifty pounds of food went to Japan for the missionaries, while 33,000 dressings for China Mission hospitals, along with a large supply of food, were sent with Jessie Platz when she returned. Arabia, too, received much needed food.

When the Woman's Board summed up its many activities of the year there was deep satisfaction in every Committee report. Thirty-four Life Memberships and ten Memorial Memberships had been received. The Baby Roll reported 417 additions to the rapidly growing list. The year, with its emergencies, had called for special activity from the many Committees that serve the Board. New missionary candidates needed, Finance stimulation and stewardship, Hospitality to Missionaries at home, the new focus on the needs of the Japanese in our country,—these indicate only part of the responsibilities carried by loyal Board Members. Ten active members and seventeen Members-at-Large were added during the year, and the Board was saddened by the death of two of its faithful members, Mrs. Charles E. Tuxill and Miss M. Louise Edwards.

More calls than ever before have come into the Board offices for missionary speakers and for the week-end Visitations into the Classes. Six such Visitations have been made, each one with its group of missionaries and board leaders, and great interest has followed. Missionaries have given themselves unstintingly to deputation work, and Dr. Shafer, after his return in January 1941 from Japan and China, has been out in the churches almost continuously, bringing a deeply moving message from fellow Christians in the Far East. Such contacts as these along with the carefully prepared literature of both Boards have given the Church up-to-the-minute facts in a rapidly changing picture.

Looking back over the year we note the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of Young Women's Work and record with great satisfaction the growth in effective service and in the realization of stewardship on the part of Leagues for Service, which stand 375 strong as training centers for Christian World citizenship. Special Anniversary gifts came to $481.03 and the total giving of Leagues for Service for benevolence amounted to $12,702.07.

A most outstanding achievement of the year in the field of educational literature has been the development through the Department of Religious and Missionary Education of a graded course for the Sunday School into which Missions and the history of the Reformed Church have been built. Quiet and steady work continues in the effort of this important Department of our Church to bring to the ministers, Sunday School superintendents and teachers the necessity for thoroughly integrating missionary education into the total educational program of the Church.

There could be no better series of books for such a time as this than those offered in the graded plan for the coming year. A CHRISTIAN IMPERATIVE: Our Contribution to World Order by Roswell P. Barnes describes in detail the distinctive contribution that Christians, drawn together in the world mission, can and must make to a new world order. THE SEED AND THE SOIL by Richard T. Baker, a thoroughly original book prepared for young people, diagnoses what is wrong with society today and why it is broken into warring pieces. Even while men and nations are split apart, Mr. Baker points out that Christians of all the world are working for a community of mankind, tying the world together into one brotherhood, through Christian Missions. LIVING TOGETHER IN TODAY'S WORLD and BROTHERTOWN are materials prepared for junior high school young people; while in WE GATHER TOGETHER we have twelve stories for juniors which picture Christian people at worship in different parts of the world. Thus in spite of the wrecks of time, the Christian Church seeks to educate each on-coming generation to a knowledge of its responsibility for the Kingdom of God.

Chapter Eight

The Meaning of the Figures

ON the opposite page appears a summary of the receipts of the year, which makes clear the sources of support and also in broad outline gives some comparison with the results of the preceding year. A more detailed study of operations will be found in the Report of the Certified Public Accountants on pages 92 to 101.

The receipts tabulated under heading "I" represent those which have no special designation so that the Board is free to apply them at its discretion to expenditures of the year. Upon these receipts, therefore, the Board must depend for the meeting of the regular budget. The total, $270,228.44, is $3,745.43 higher than that of the year previous. As a result, the budget was met in full and the old debt reduced by $4,771.05 to a total of $39,493.36. In only one of the past seven fiscal years has the Board had to report an unbalanced budget of the year.

The total for Special Objects, $58,869.30, is $1,929.81 more than the corresponding figure of the preceding year.

The Board would express its deep appreciation of the fine effort put forth by so many churches and church organizations to maintain at a time of sharp crisis. At the same time we must report some concern over the fact that the gains in receipts from these sources in the first eleven months were more than offset by a sharp falling off of gifts in the last month of the fiscal year.

A comparison of the gifts toward the regular budget for the past two years is of interest. The gifts from the churches reveal a loss of \$2,762.36, or nearly $2\frac{1}{2}\%$; from Sunday Schools a loss of \$1,006.27, or $7\frac{1}{2}\%$; from Young People's Societies a gain of \$40.70, or 3% ; from the Woman's Board a gain of \$1,555.68, or 2% . Fortunately the gifts from individuals increased by \$6,294.83, or 29% , so that there was the small net increase already noted.

THE WOMAN'S BOARD

ON the opposite page appear the essential details of the financial operations of the year. The budget receipts of $119,247.27 show an increase over the previous year of $4,295.94 in contributions from individuals, women's societies, churches and Sunday Schools, but there was a decrease of $315.99 in interest applicable to the budget.

In order to meet the total obligations of the year it was necessary to apply income on various funds to the amount of $2,727.00, and special funds available to the amount of $2,705.00.

We have paid to Synod's Board for the regular work of the year $88,295.47 and start the new year with an appropriated balance of $2,386.98.

The items for Publicity and Promotion, Home Administration and Retirement Allowances on pages 108 and 109 appear as $26,226.44. This figure represents about 16½ % of the receipts of the year.

The Woman's Board wishes to express sincere appreciation to all groups and individuals whose generous gifts made it possible to meet the obligations of the year without having to use legacies as was necessary last year.

We would urge a careful reading of the Receipts of the year found in the auditor's statement on pages 104-109, and we would especially mention the gift of $2,000.00 for the endowment of two beds in Mary Lott Lyles Hospital, "In loving memory of Katharine Van Nest" and "In honor of Olivia H. Lawrence", and the gift of $29,000.00 from a member of the Woman's Board of which $16,500 has been set aside for future needs and also to make possible the sending of a new missionary to China as part of the China Centenary plan of 1942.

Home Expenditures and Per Capita Gifts

The Home Expenditures of the Woman's Board appear elsewhere in this combined report, but are treated separately as they are an independent expenditure of that Board.

The details of Home Expenditures of the Board of Foreign Missions appear on page 95. The total, $31,836.75 is $111.35 lower than that of the preceding year. This figure represents a little over 9% of total receipts. The fact that this is considerably less than the percentage indicated in the Woman's Board statement which precedes is explained by the fact that our total receipts include nearly $94,000.00 turned over to the general treasury by the Woman's Board without any charge for overhead. If the great program of education and promotion carried on by the Woman's Board had to be supported by Synod's Board directly it would inevitably greatly increase our overhead expenditures.

The per capita rate of receipts of the Board of Foreign Missions, calculated upon the basis of total receipts, is $2.02 as compared with $2.01 in the preceding year. Calculated upon the basis of contributions from the living, the per capita rate is $1.75 as compared with $1.77 in the preceding year. It is significant to note that the corresponding figures of 1918, when the present Treasurer joined the staff are $2.46 and $2.04. Even thirty years ago contributions from living donors were at the rate of $2.06 per member.

Field Expenditures

Totals expended for the regular budgets of the Missions were as follows: Amoy, $37,398.28; Arcot, $83,028.36; Japan, $38,014.12; Arabia, $63,909.86; United Mission in Mesopotamia, $5,500; a grand total of $227,850.62. The corresponding figure of the preceding year was $220,879.27.

Auditors' Statement

May 19, 1941

The Board of Foreign Missions, R. C. A.,
156 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

We have completed our examination of the books of account of The Board of Foreign Missions, R. C. A., for the year ended April 30, 1941, and submit herewith statements, prepared from these records, marked Exhibits "A", "B", and "C" and Schedules No. 1, No. 1a, No. 2 and No. 3.

Based on such examination, the statements mentioned above, when considered in connection with the following brief comments, in our opinion set forth fairly the Board's financial condition at April 30, 1941 and its revenue and expenditures for the year then ended.

The balance of cash on deposit at April 30, 1941, as shown by the cash book was reconciled with the amount confirmed to us by the Bank of the Manhattan Company as being on deposit at that date. The monthly totals of receipts shown by the cash book were compared and reconciled with the totals of deposits for corresponding months credited on bank statements on file in the Board's office. Paid checks returned by the bank were examined and compared, as to amounts and names of payees, with disbursement entries in the cash book.

The petty cash on hand was counted on May 5, 1941.

In connection with investments at April 30, 1941, consisting of cash in savings bank, bonds, stocks, mortgages and real estate, on May 15, 1941 we examined bonds and stock certificates held in the Board's safe deposit box. We also examined the passbook for the savings account with The Bank for Savings in the City of New York and mortgage documents held in the office safe of the Board; letters received directly by us from others and letters addressed to the Board confirming investments held by the writers of such letters as agents or trustees for the Board. Detail records relating to changes in the money balance of the investment account were examined and compared with the related entries in the books of account. These changes representing additions through investments received as legacies, securities purchased, amounts expended for foreclosure costs and interest added to savings bank account and reductions due to investments sold or redeemed and receipts of principal of mortgages held by the Board, resulted in a net increase in the investment account during the period of $28,690.85.

Through the redemption and sale of bonds and the sale of real estate, a net loss of $6,476.82 (excess of book values over proceeds) was sustained. The Board has allocated this net loss as follows: a profit of $275.00 was realized and credited to the Fund for Medical Missionary Work in Arabia, a net profit of $72.50 was realized and credited to the Scudder Memorial Hospital Endowment Fund and the remaining net loss of $6,824.32 was charged to the Unallocated Loss on Sales of Trust Fund Investments account. The latter account was thereby increased by this amount and was decreased by the application of a transfer of $1,000.00 from the Conditional Gifts (annuity funds) made available to the Board during the period by reason of the death of an annuitant. The resulting balance of this account at April 30, 1941 was $34,891.89, the amount shown on Exhibit "B" as deducted from the total of Trust Funds.

Certain legacies were received by the Board in the form of sundry items of stock, part interest in mortgages, a promissory note, etc. We understand that it was not found possible to place a satisfactory valuation upon these items and, therefore, it was decided to record them in the books of account at no amount, with the intention of deferring entry of an amount in the accounts until after liquidation of these items.

Investments of the Board at April 30, 1941 are listed in this report on Schedule No. 2 showing for all items the ledger balances and for items of bonds (other than real estate mortgage bonds) and corporate stocks, current values based on published prices at or near April 30, 1941. Where such prices were not found, no amount is shown in the column headed "Value based on published prices at or near April 30, 1941". However this is not intended to indicate that there is no value for such items.

Trust Funds were increased during the period by the net profit resulting from the redemption of trust fund investments amounting to $347.50 and reduced by an amount of $200.00 representing that part of a trust fund transferred to The Women's Board of Foreign Missions, R. C. A.

Conditional Gifts (annuity funds) were decreased during the year, through a transfer of $1,000.00 to reduce the balance of the Unallocated Loss on Sales of Trust Fund Investments account. The transfer was authorized and made upon the death of an annuitant. Receipts and disbursements of funds handled solely as accommodations are shown only on Exhibit "C" and are not included in Revenue or Expenditures on Exhibit "A".

Certain features of total revenues and total expenditures have been verified as indicated in previous paragraphs. We have not, however, made a complete examination to ascertain whether or not all credits for revenue and charges for expenditures have been made to the proper accounts, nor have we attempted to determine, by detailed examination of the records, whether there has been compliance with all conditions and restrictions under which funds have been received. Classifications of balances in the statements herewith are based on classifications in your accounts.

Respectfully yours,

LOOMIS, SUFFERN & FERNALD,

Certified Public Accountants

THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS, R. C. A.

New York, N. Y.
Mesdames:

We have audited the books and accounts of the Treasurer of your Board for the year ended April 30, 1941 and submit herewith the following statements, which, in our opinion, set forth the transactions of the Board for the year and its financial condition as at April 30, 1941.

EXHIBIT A — Statement of Assets and Liabilities as at April 30, 1941.

EXHIBIT B —

Schedule I — Statement of Receipts for the year ended April 30, 1941.

Schedule II — Statement of Disbursements for the year ended April 30, 1941.

In conformity with the Board's practice in the past, no provision has been made for depreciation of buildings owned.

Cash balances were reconciled with statements submitted by the depositaries and confirmed by correspondence.

The securities were examined during the course of our examination.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) CLARKE, OAKES & GREENWOOD
